

O'Shea, Gillian

Gill is a professionally trained Irish artist specialising in contemporary Watercolour. Her Watercolour work captures the beauty and intensity of familiar subjects using a semi-representational accessible style, to evoke intense emotional responses within the viewer. The work offers a fresh, vibrant and contemporary approach to the traditional and complex medium of Watercolour. Gill studied Fine Art in Dublin Institute of Technology and graduated with a first class honours degree in 2005. Since graduating, Gill pursued an alternative career in Financial Services, qualifying as an accountant in 2009. In 2014, she started painting in Watercolour, and in July 2015 created 'Dabble in Art' to share her work and passion for Watercolour with others. In late 2016, Gill decided to return to art full-time and develop her artistic practice. Gill currently lives and works in Dublin.
