

Batlle, Michel

MICHEL BATLLE (b. 1946, Toulouse, France)

A major French artist of Catalan extraction, in 1966 Michel Batlle created a new concept that connects art to the body in "a relationship between the body and spirit that is translated through graphic means", which he called: psychophysiographie.

Batlle continues to live and work in France and he exhibits worldwide.